

24 July 2009

To Whom It May Concern

RE: BILL PARTON TRIO

I have been a company director for the past 40 years. In this time I have served on different company boards and associations of which one was the Adelaide West End Association Inc. I was the Secretary of the Association for several years and part of the committee to keep live music in Adelaide.

Over the years I have met and formed good relationships with many of South Australia's bands, trios and jazz musicians. I came across the Bill Parton Trio back when they were first testing the local waters of SA gigs. I have followed the Trio over several years, seeing them go from strength to strength with every venue they appear at.

The Trio's leader, songwriter, musician and singer, Mr Bill Parton stands out as a young South Australia talent waiting for the world to discover Bill and his fellow musicians, Ben Harrison and Andy Partington, namely the Bill Parton Trio.

I have no hesitation in bringing this young group to your attention and I have no doubt that their talent, enthusiasm and drive, coupled with financial backing, will enable them to make a success of their music career.

Yours sincerely

Bob Foley
Director